

SHOT IS FIRED BUT
BURGLAR ESCAPED

Robbers Enter Home of George Mascher, And Family is Awakened by Noise.

RAISED KITCHEN WINDOW

Prowlers Are Heard at Other Places About the City—Police on Watch.

Burglars are at work in Seymour again. It has been several weeks since any robberies have been committed here but during the past few nights several persons have heard men prowling around their homes at a late hour, although all attempts to rob any of the houses have been unsuccessful. Burglaries have been reported at several of the surrounding towns recently and the police were expecting the burglars here at any time.

Early Sunday morning an attempt was made to rob the home of George Mascher on South Carter street. The family was awakened by the noise made by the intruders and Mr. Mascher fired a shot at one of the men. The revolver was fired through the screen door and so far as known did not hit the man.

The attempt to burglarize the Mascher home was made by two men. One man gained entrance into the kitchen through the rear window. After opening the window, however, he was unable to get into the room without moving a table and chair, and in getting these out of the way he roused the family. Mr. Mascher heard the noise in the kitchen and reached the room in time to see the man diving head first from the window into the alley. Mr. Mascher ran to the front door, thinking that he could see the man coming from the alley, and as he opened the door saw a second man hiding behind a tree.

He fired the revolver through the screen door at the man standing in the front yard and he lost no time in getting away. The burglar who entered the kitchen ran to Chestnut street, it is believed. A call was sent to the police station and the officers were on the ground in a very short time and made a search. They were unable to find the parties anywhere in the neighborhood.

The prowlers were also heard at the home of Curtis Baise on Bruce street, but they made no attempt to get into the house.

It is believed that the robberies in the various towns in southern Indiana are the work of the same gang. Only one of the men was seen at the Mascher home and he was described as being of medium height and was dressed in a black suit. The police are making every effort to rid the city of these undesirable visitors and direct all suspicious strangers out of town.

NEW YORK VICTORIOUS

Rube Marquard Wins 5-2 Game For The Giants.

It will take at least one more game to settle the world's series. With three games to the credit of Boston the game this afternoon was watched with great interest. Rube Marquard was in the box and pitched a great game, winning by a score of 5 to 2. Meyer was behind the bat. Battery for Boston: O'Brien and Cady. Umpires: Klein and Evans. Rigler and O'Loughlin.

Boston made two runs in the second innings. New York's five runs were made in the first.

GOOD ADDRESS

Judge J. K. Langford Spoke at Crothersville Saturday Night.

Judge J. K. Langford, of Nebraska, delivered a republican address at Crothersville Saturday night. He has spoken in several states since the opening of the campaign and is an excellent talker.

The speaker in his address Saturday told of the progress which had been made under the republican administrations and gave considerable time to the discussion of the tariff. He pointed out that the people could not afford to vote for Wilson and democratic policies as they would result in hard times and financial depression all over the country. He is a pleasing talker and presents his arguments in a very forceful manner.

ATTORNEY GENERAL

Gives Unofficial Opinion Regarding First Voters.

Thomas M. Honan, attorney general, in an unofficial reply to numerous inquiries, has given it as his opinion that a person is old enough to vote if he becomes twenty-one years old on November 6, the day after election. "Strictly speaking this question would have to be answered always in the negative," said the attorney general, and then he added: "It is true, however, that if the twenty-first anniversary of a man's birthday falls on the day after election he will be, in fact, twenty-one years of age on the day of the election. In other words, a man becomes twenty-one years old the day before the anniversary of his birthday. This grows out of the fact that the law recognizes no pieces of days."

"Power Behind the Throne."

The play "The Power Behind the Throne" will be presented at the Majestic Theater Tuesday evening. The company is reported to be exceptionally strong, and has played to large audiences at Indianapolis. From here the company will go to Louisville. Miss Laura Arnold, of Indianapolis, and who has visited here several times, is playing the part of "Aria," and will be with the company here.

Against Cigarettes.

The state board of health has asked school superintendents in all of the cities of the state to help do away with the use of cigarettes. As some of the school teachers themselves use cigarettes the order to use influences against tobacco in such form is causing some stir.

HOADLEY'S

A. J. ROSS, VETERAN
RAILROADER DEAD

At the Age of Fourteen Years Worked on Construction of Old J. M. & I. Road.

SPENT YEARS WITH O. & M.

Worked in Many Departments of That Road—Was Widely Known in Southern Indiana.

Andrew J. Ross, an early citizen of Seymour, and a veteran railroad man, died Sunday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at his home on East Second street. For several months he suffered from a tubercular abscess and for the past two weeks had been in a critical condition. He had a wide acquaintance in southern Indiana, especially in railroad circles.

Andrew Jackson Ross was born in Washington county, December 27, 1837 and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ross. He received his early education in a primitive log cabin of the times. In 1851 he came to Seymour and accepted employment on the J. M. & I. road which was then being constructed. The first work he did was in Langdon's bottoms south of the city, and received $10 a month as wages.

In 1852 he came to Seymour and took employment with 'Squire Thomas McCollum, who was running a hotel. He took care of the 'Squire's horse and did the chores.

On March 15, 1856, he took a position of brakeman on the Ohio & Mississippi railroad. Thomas VanName, well known to some of the older inhabitants here, being the conductor. On April 14, 1856, at North Vernon, he met with an accident, one of his ankles being badly mashed.

When he was able to go to work, Sept. 4, 1857, he took a position in the blacksmith shop of the O. & M. company. November 15, 1864, he was promoted from helper and given charge of a fire, which position he held until Dec. 16, 1871, when he was again promoted, being appointed foreman of the round house in this city. April 26, 1875, he was transferred to Vincennes, where he had charge of the O. & M. round house. On Dec. 16, 1876, he again took charge of the round house here, which position he held until Dec. 21, 1893.

During his long years of railroad service he had charge of clearing up some of the worst wrecks the road has ever known. He did his work with dispatch, but was always careful to perform his duties accurately.

On November 22, 1865 Mr. Ross was married to Miss M. Newby of Henryville. To this union were born seven children, five sons and two daughters. Charles A., deceased. Harry O., Walter L., of Washington. Thomas E., Andrew M., Seymour. Mrs. Minnie C. Teckemeyer, Indianapolis, and Mrs. Martha A. Shotts, of Terre Haute. Mrs. Ross died March 4, 1880.

On January 18, 1881, Mr. Ross was married to Miss Martha Weyer, of Madison, who survives him. To this union were born two children, Mrs. Virginia M. McMillen, of Rochester.

SURVEYING PARTY
QUIETLY AT WORK

Obtain Some Data From the Office of The City Engineer, But Refuse to Give Information.

EMPLOYED BY EASTERN FIRM

Survey Starts Talk of New Traction Line From Indianapolis to Seymour.

Who are they? What are they doing here? Who sent them here? These are a few of the hundred and one questions which are being asked regarding a party of surveyors who have been working here for several days. No satisfactory information can be obtained, although it is generally believed that they are making a survey for another interurban line between Indianapolis and Seymour.

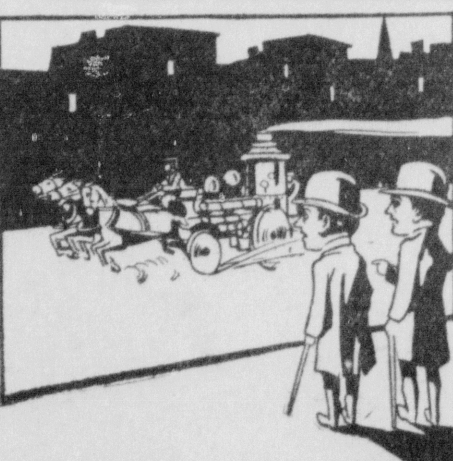

The surveying party started at Indianapolis, it is said, and worked out to this city. They visited the office of the city engineer and asked about the Base marks. These are the points from which the survey in the city are made. Engineer Douglass made inquiry as to what the party intended to do but did not receive any intelligent information. The surveying party was composed of two surveyors at first but later a third man joined them. They have taken surveys on several of the streets in the city, but for some reason refused to tell any one who they are, for whom they are working or the purpose of the survey.

It is reported that the surveying party has caused considerable interest all the way from Indianapolis to Seymour but that no information has been given to any one. It was said that the surveyors were working for the Pennsylvania Company, but officials who are in position to know deny that a survey is being made for that road and said that they were of the opinion that the survey was being made for the I. C. & S. Traction Company. It is reported that the traction officials know nothing about the mysterious party of surveyors and were of the opinion that they were in the employ of the Pennsylvania Company.

A man connected with the traction company said that he was of the opinion that the Pennsylvania Company was making the survey as it is intended to elevate its tracks at Indianapolis and was going over the entire division before the work was done. It was also stated that the traction company intended to double its track and this was the preliminary work.

It is reported that a farmer who saw the surveyors at work made some inquiries of them, but that the information received was very meager. He was referred to the boss of the gang and was informed that the surveyors were employed by a Pittsburg firm. He would not give the name of the firm and said he did not know the particulars.

Some believe that the survey is being made for the Indianapolis & Louisville Traction Company. It is said that the I. & L. would like to have a line from this city to Indianapolis, so it could get into Indianapolis without using the I. C. & S. line.

POLITICAL WORKERS BUSY

Speakers Will Work Overtime During Next Three Weeks.

With election only three weeks from Tuesday, the political workers are giving considerable time to the campaign and during the remaining weeks a number of addresses will be made in this county. Williams Jennings Bryan will be here Wednesday and speak for thirty minutes at the city park. Theodore Roosevelt was scheduled to speak in Seymour for a few minutes Wednesday morning, but was compelled to cancel his engagements in Indiana because of the condition of his throat. He will pass through Seymour late Tuesday night for Louisville. His only address in Indiana will be in Indianapolis Tuesday night.

During the next few weeks local campaigners will hold meetings at the various school houses in the county. James E. Watson, of Rushville, will probably be here for one address before the close of the campaign. His engagements with the national committee will continue for several days, and after that he expects to spend some time in the state.

COURT CONVENED

First Day Taken Up in Calling the Docket.

The Jackson circuit court convened this morning for the October term. No important business was transacted, and practically the entire day was taken up in calling the docket fixing the dates for hearing some of the cases. The attorneys were also present and a number of motions were filed in the cases in which they are interested.

The grand jury was given instructions this morning and began its work of examining witnesses. A number of local people were called before the grand jury and went to Brownstown this morning. As the work is done in secret nothing can be learned as to the nature of its investigations.

DEMOCRATS WILL TELL ABOUT COS

Senate Committee Will Place Chieftains on Stand to Testify About Convention.

PROMINENT MEN SUMMONED

Chairman McCombs of Democratic National Committee Will Explain Expenditures for Wilson.

Washington, October 14.—The senate campaign contribution investigating committee today had the stage set for a Democratic national pow-wow.

Democratic chieftains met today to tell how much it cost, respectively, to battle at Baltimore for Governor Wilson, Representative Underwood and Governor Harmon, leading presidential candidates. Much interest was manifested by the committee as it has already learned that the candidacy of Speaker Clark, the other one of the big four candidates, cost $50,500. Chairman McCombs, of the Democratic national committee, who was Wilson's preconvention manager, was here to divulge his expenditures. Vice-Chairman McAdoo, of the Democratic national committee, was also present.

Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, Oscar Underwood's chief supporter, was called to tell how much money he received. The account of Governor Harmon's expenses was to be furnished by Lieutenant Governor Nichols, of Ohio.

Judge Alton B. Parker and Roger Sullivan, of Chicago, were other prominent Democrats summoned to testify today.

CONVENTION OF DISCIPLES

FAITH IDENT TAFT

JOHN WESLEY HILL'S
ON IS ELOQUENT ANALY-OF TAFT'S CHARACTER.

TH IN GOD AND CHRIST

raises the Sunday School as an institution of Greatest Importance and Shows His Sympathy for All Forms of Religious Belief.

Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, president of the International Peace Forum of New York city, recently preached to a large audience at All Souls' church, Chicago, a sermon on "The Faith of President Taft."

Dr. Hill began by paying a high tribute to the United States as a Christian nation, and said that it was a striking testimony to the religious character of the American people that they have always insisted upon the election of devout, conscientious, godly men to the highest office within their gift. He asserted that President Taft met these requirements, stating that the president had gone farther to conserve the cause of Christianity in his home and foreign propaganda, no less than in the application of its principles in social and civil justice, than any of his illustrious predecessors.

"Born of godly parents," said Dr.
Hill, "and reared in an atmosphere saturated with the Puritan spirit, his character and career rest upon that religious basis which has developed his sense of personal accountability to God, love of truth and justice, sensitivity to the feelings of others, reverence for sacred things, adherence to law and order, fidelity to duty and devotion to the spread of Christian civilization."

Dr. Hill, discussing President Taft's religious belief, said that the president, as a Unitarian, belongs to the Christian church, believing as clearly and distinctly in the divinity of Jesus Christ as did Edward Everett Hale, whose prayers were always offered in the name of Christ. To show that his faith constantly manifested itself in Mr. Taft's public addresses, Dr. Hill quoted from a speech delivered by the president at the Tompkins Avenue Congregational church in Brooklyn, wherein he praised the Sunday school as "an institution of the greatest importance to our country, where the lessons of the Bible are unfolded, and where boys and girls learn of God and of Jesus Christ, and so lay the foundation of enduring religious character."

Dr. Hill pictured President Taft as a man of simplicity, sympathy and Christian democracy, who practices Christianity in helping the poor and society, and who, while president of the United States, after addressing a vast audience in Carnegie hall, New York, found time to visit the Bowery Mission and utter encouraging words to an audience of a thousand wretched, fallen, discouraged and despairing men. Dr. Hill asserted also that President Taft is a man of prayer and that his reliance upon God is the secret of that great self-control which is the crowning virtue of his character.

Dr. Hill's analysis of the president's religious belief was accompanied by numerous citations from the president's speeches, delivered on various occasions to religious audiences. He insisted that there is nothing of bigotry or intolerance in the religious life of President Taft. "His addresses," said Dr. Hill, "breathe the spirit of Christian catholicity and strive for union of all true believers in sympathy and loving co-operation." His breadth of religious view was shown when addressing the Catholic summer school at Cht Haven, N. Y. He said, "I am not a Catholic," and then added that he believed Christians are growing more tolerant and are no longer cherishing narrow views which spring from religious bigotry, but are able to recognize and appreciate the virtues exhibited by the heroes of every and any Christian faith and creed. Before a Methodist audience President Taft eulogized Methodism as an affirmative, aggressive, pushing, practical church movement, and according to Dr. Hill, he has always shown the widest sympathy for every religious belief.

After eulogizing President Taft's efforts to secure world-wide peace as the crowning point of his career, Dr.
Hill concluded as follows:

"Measured, therefore, from all these viewpoints; by his faith in Almighty God; his belief in Christ, Christian education, evangelism, missions and civilization; his unflinching dependence upon Providence; his familiarity with the Word of God, and his sincere attempt to bring his life into harmony with the precepts of that word; his habit of prayer; his simple and steady confidence in the ultimate triumph of the right; his reproduction of the spirit of the Master as seen in the gentleness of his treatment of his enemies, the patience with which he resisted opposition, being reviled, and not replying again; by his reverence for the Sabbath, his church-membership, and his respect and love for all the churches and co-operation in their work, his consecration to the cause of peace; his love of truth and justice; his abhorrence of sham and hyocrisy; his sympathy with humanity;
his adherence to the right as God enables him to see the right; his sterling, unquestionable integrity; his noble moral sentiments and high ideals; his enthusiasm in the advancement of every good cause; his practice of moderation in all things; his exemplification of the spirit and principle of true temperance reform, being a total abstainer, the purity of his thoughts and words; the transparency and cleanliness of his life; and, withal, his dauntless courage in the enforcement of law and the maintenance of the sanctity of our national heritage, which is rooted in the religious and civil faith of our forefathers, I present him as a modest, conscientious, conscientious, Christian man, whose upright, godly life maintains the historic purity and beauty of the White House, and stands as a model to be emulated by all who aspire to the best there is in our citizenship and civilization."

FOLLOWS TRAIL IN MANY CITIES

Hotel Clerks Identify Alleged Dynamiters.

AS HARBINGERS OF TROUBLE

From Evidence Brought Out in Conspiracy Trial at Indianapolis, It Appears That the McNamaras and Mc-Manigal Had Been Present in Many Cities Simultaneously With or Just Prior to Dynamite Explosions.

Indianapolis, Oct. 12.—In the dynamite trial the government continues taking the testimony of hotel clerks, the evidence showing that men on trial were at the hotels simultaneously with the dynamiting of structures in the cities named or that they had been there at divers times just prior to the explosions. Photographs of the McNamaras were identified by the witnesses as those of men who had registered under assumed names, and McManigal was identified by several of the clerks.

The government's first mention in this case of Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor was made when Special Assistant United States Attorney J. W. Noel asked a hotel clerk from St. Louis if Gompers was at the hotel at the time O. A.
Tviemoe, Frank M. Ryan, J. J. Mc-Namara and M. J. Young, defendants, and several other labor men were registered while the A. F. of L. convention of 1910 was in progress. There was objection on the part of the defense, but Mr. Noel promised to show the relevancy of this testimony later.
When Senator Kern objected to this,
Attorney Noel said: "The prosecution will show that Samuel Gompers did have something to do with the defense of this conspiracy in California, if nothing else." Judge Anderson refused to strike the evidence from the record.

Judge Anderson in ruling on the testimony concerning Gompers which Mr. Noel said it would be shown was relevant in connection with the situation on the coast, said if it later appeared that the question of Mr. Gompers' presence in St. Louis at the time indicated was not relevant he would instruct the jury and would tell them not to consider any mention of Gompers' name in connection with the St. Louis registrations.

DODGED AND RAN

But Detective's Shot Brought Down
This Escaping Prisoner.

Tipton, Ind., Oct. 12.—A man supposed to be Robert Brockman from the papers found on him, and said to be wanted at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for blowing a safe, was shot and killed while trying to find a hiding place under the veranda at Antony Hurley's home in this city.

The shot was fired by R. O. Emerson of Lima, O., a detective in the employ of the Lake Erie & Western railroad. The bullet struck Brockman in the heart.

Emerson saw the man and notified
Chief of Police Devault there was a reward of $600 for his capture. Brockman was arrested and taken before the mayor. While the authorities were consulting Brockman dodged and ran. Shots were fired at him, but he kept on running till he reached the Hurley home. He darted around the house and then under the porch, but the officers saw him. Emerson was the first to reach the house. He stooped over and fired one shot, killing him. On his person were found a quantity of nitroglycerin, fuses, flashlight and other things usually used by safe-blowers.

a dark complexion, and was unable to make the members of the train crew believe she was entitled to ride with white persons.

New Marriage Law Wanted.

Elkhart, Ind., Oct. 12.—The Elkhart Ministerial association voted to agitate for a state law prohibiting anyone from conducting a marriage service unless the prospective bride couple submit a certificate showing examination has proved them in fit physical condition for marriage. Steps will be taken to enlist co-operation by ministers, jurists and sociologists throughout the state.

Indiana Medical Association.

Indianapolis, Oct. 12.—The following officers were elected by the Indiana State Medical association: President, Dr. A. C. Kimberlin of Indianapolis; vice presidents, Dr. Guy Hoover, Boonville; Dr. U. G. Pollard, Muncie;

BUTTER'S BUYING POWER FOR THE FARM WOMEN

Every farm woman who trades her butter for groceries, for clothing, for home furnishings, would not willingly go back to the discouraging market conditions of 1896, when twenty pounds of butter had far less purchasing power, or exchange value, than in the prosperous Republican year of 1912.
Figures based on Government reports show that in 1896 twenty pounds of butter would purchase 37 pounds of coffee, and that now it will purchase 46 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 69 pounds of rice, and that now it will purchase 140 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 6 barrels of salt, and that now it will purchase 7 barrels; that in 1896 it would purchase 90 pounds of granulated sugar, and that now it will purchase 123 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 13 pounds of tea, and that now it will purchase 28 pounds; that in 1896 it would purchase 4 yards of Brussels carpet, and that now it will purchase 5 yards, and so on down through the list of everything the farm woman has to buy. In other words, the buying power of twenty pounds of butter has increased 86 per cent.

PROCTOR LIQUOR LAW A SERPENT

Democratic Legislature Gave
the People Measure Framed By Brewery Interests.

Governor Marshall, Democratic candidate for Vice-President, in his speeches in Indiana, has been "pointing with pride" to the last Legislature to prove that it had been a very efficient body. The Fort Wayne News says that when Marshall was calling off this list of presumably beneficent laws, he failed utterly to even so much as suggest that law which this gla-rious Legislature devoted the major portion of its time. The News says:

"He made no reference whatsoever to the Proctor liquor law, and he thereby gave to the public for the first time his real and honest opinion of that law which was made in Fort Wayne under the personal supervision of Steve Fleming and rammed through a brewery-owned Legislature by the representatives of the brewery trust.
In his enumeration of the statutes he considered praiseworthy Governor Marshall did not damn the Proctor law with faint praise but he double damned it by mentioning it not at all.

"Governor Marshall knows that law for what it really is—a fraud, a farce, and a cheap pretense. He knows that it is the serpent the people were given when they asked for fish and the stone they received when they begged for bread. He knows that it is a law adroitly framed to say apparently one thing, yet to mean something altogether different; a law designed and calculated to continue and entrench those ancient abuses of the liquor traffic that have made it an offense in the eyes of the people of this State.

"Governor Marshall knows all this and knowing it he does not stoop to the stultification that would fall upon him by a public endorsement of that which he knows is a fraud and a sham."

"I DON'T LIKE TAFT."

(South Bend Tribune.)

"I don't like Taft and I shall not vote for him."

This is the thoughtless utterance of scores of men who would be insulted were their adherence to the Republican party questioned or doubt cast upon the sincerity of their allegiance to that party; and yet it is not a fact that that very utterance proves their disloyalty, unintentional though it be,
and has its influence in inviting policies which it is known will result most disastrously for their country?
The men who insist they are Republicans but will not vote for Taft simply because they do not like him are assuming an attitude most of them would not take if they would but weigh the situation carefully. Let them ask themselves these questions and see if they would not answer themselves with these replies:

"Am I really a Republican?"

"Well, I should say I am. Why, my father and my grandfather were Republicans and I couldn't be anything else and be true to my conscience and my beliefs of how our great American government should be run."

"By the way, what are my beliefs?"
"Well, first of all, I believe in a tariff. By that I mean a tariff that will produce a revenue and besides that protect every industry that needs protection because that means the protection of the man who works in that industry against the competition of lower wages of the foreign countries.
Then I believe in the constitution. I believe, too, that my party represents all that is highest and best for us as a nation because I know that under my party's policies my country has prospered exceptionally."

"Well, but I don't like Taft and I don't want to vote for him."

"That may be true, but don't read our newspaper although I don't like its editor, but do like the paper's policy? Don't I pay my grocery house a good sum every month although I fairly hate the owner, but he sells good goods and gives honest weight?
Don't I patronize Dr. Jones although I don't like him, but I have confidence in his ability?"

PLATFORMS OF TWO PARTIES COMPARED

Working and Business Men May Readily Understand
the Protective Planks.

The platforms of the Republicans and Democrats are not so complex in phraseology but a working or business man who can read may readily compare them to his own understanding. There is a difference between the two platforms which every voter should know about.

The Republican platform declares for a continuance of the protective tariff; the Democratic platform declares against a protective tariff and in favor of a tariff for revenue only.

Everybody does not understand what this means, but everybody should, because the failure to understand this difference in 1893 closed a great many factories, cut down wages all along the line, put thousands out of employment and opened a good many soup-houses.

The tariff of 1893 was the Wilson tariff, fathered by Professor Wilson, a Virginia college professor. The tariff recommended by the Democratic platform this year is supported by another college professor also named Wilson, coming from New Jersey.
There never was a tariff platform prepared by college professors that did not result in injury to the workmen and business of the country. Put one of these college professors behind the merchant's counter and see how he would run the business. Put him in the shop, or at the bench, and see if he could fill a workman's place.

The difference between a protective tariff and a tariff for revenue is this:
A protective tariff is, as its name implies, a tariff high enough to protect the American wage schedule and the American shop from the intrusion of the cheaper foreign labor or the products of the cheaper foreign shop. President McKinley explained this and the workingmen and business men of the country understood him and supported him.

The Democratic platform declares that we have no constitutional right to protect the American wage-earner or the American shop or the American manufacturer by putting a tax on the products of foreign labor and that the only excuse for this tax is because we must levy it to secure the revenues to support our government.

TWO PEAS IN SAME POD.

Democratic Tariff Plank of 1892 a Twain to That of the Party Platform for 1912.

It would require a strong magnifying glass to find the difference between the Democratic tariff plank in 1892, which brought on the disastrous financial results in business to all classes of people during the Cleveland administration, and the plank which the Democrats ask the voters to support in 1912. It is the twin planks, as much alike as two peas in a pod, which cause the voter to look with both fear and suspicion on the proposition to restore the Democrats to power, especially since the Democracy insists that the tariff is the main issue.
In 1892 the Democratic tariff plank said:

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purposes of revenue only."

The Democratic tariff plank for 1912 reads:

"We declare it to be a fundamental
principle of the Democratic party that the Federal government under the constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue."

Some Democrats claim the party is progressive, yet by its own declaration it has not advanced an inch in twenty years on an issue which its leaders claim is the most vital of any now before the people. No wonder thinking Democrats are taking alarm and uniting with a party that promises a continuance of the protective system under scientific guidance but with the assurance that the benefits will be equitably distributed.

EGGS HELP TO PASS PROSPERITY AROUND

Women on Indiana farms are convinced that Republican prosperity is being "passed around" when they compare the "egg money" they are receiving with the market price of this product back in 1896, when Democratic influences were cutting down egg prices and their buying power. Eggs this year have a much longer reach in the market for the farm woman when she goes to town for her home supplies. In 1896 thirty dozen eggs would buy 74 pounds of coffee, and that now she can buy 94 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 137 pounds of rice and that now she can buy 285 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 180 pounds of granulated sugar, and that now she can buy 251 pounds; that in 1896 she could buy 114 yards of cotton flannel, and that now she can buy with the same number of eggs 141 yards; that in 1896 she could buy 3 pairs of shoes; that now the same number of eggs will cover the price of five pairs of shoes. In fact, the buying power of eggs has since 1896 increased 90 per cent.

THAT $200,000 THEFT NOT YET CLEARED UP

Havana Details Only Add to the Mystery.

Havana, Oct. 14.—Photographs of the envelope of the registered letter which reached the National Park bank of New York with a sugar report instead of the $200,000 sent by the National Bank of Cuba, has arrived here.
Mayos, the employee of the National Bank of Cuba who addressed the envelope into which he put the money, declares the photographed envelope is different from the one he handled, and the address is not in his writing.

Ayala, the bank messenger who took the envelope to the postoffice and registered the letter, declares that the photographed envelope is not the same as the one given to him, but denies any connection with the theft of the money. He says he registered the same envelope that was given to him.
The police searched Ayala's home, but found nothing.

NOT TO MOVE

Hugh Gibson Ordered to Stay and Face the Cubans.

Washington, Oct. 14.—An aftermath of the assault upon Hugh Gibson, charge d'affaires of the American legation in Havana by a Cuban newspaper reporter, came in the announcement at the State department that Mr.
Gibson's appointment to be secretary of legation at Brussels has been revoked and he is reappointed secretary at Havana.

The chief purpose of this reappointment of Mr. Gibson to the Havana post is to remove any possible excuse for the charge already made in Cuba that Mr. Gibson was being transferred from that post because his conduct as charge d'affaires had been unsatisfactory to the department of state.

Arthur M. Beaupre, minister to Cuba, in a recent visit to the department, pointed out that the transfer of Mr.
Gibson would furnish the Cubans who had been attacking him and his government through the press an opportunity to gloat.

DEFEND THE CONSTITUTION.
(Muncie Press.)

The cause for which republicans fight in this campaign is one for which millions of men have gone to battle,—battle real, bloody, deathful. For they stand with their backs to the constitution,—their faces to those who assail its essential guarantees of human rights. To make that constitution possible Saratoga and Brandywine and Yorktown were fought,—to preserve it Antietam, Chickamunga and Shiloh ran red with blood of patriots. For the constitution as Washington and Jefferson, Hamilton and Franklin wrote it, as Lincoln and Webster defended it, misguided and ambitious men would substitute the pure democracy of unhappy Greece and the toy republic of parochial Switzerland. Under the guise of cleansing the temple of liberty they would burn the temple down and erect in its stead upon the shifting sands of unrestricted public opinion, the ramshackle structure of unrestrained democracy, to be followed by the black, forbidding fortresses of Diazism.

Arrayed against the republican party in this campaign are the criminal combination of capital prosecuted by the president of the United States under the laws of the land, their coffers emptied into the tills of those who would license monopoly, issue indulgences to corporate theft, put the government in partnership with criminal combinations of capital having as their purpose the throttling of free competition. Arrayed against the republican party are all the interests which in years gone by have subsidized the free trade propaganda from the great importing centers on the seaboard which seek to thrive by closing the factory doors at home and opening the mills abroad. The republican national organization is without financial resources. The help of the Morgans, the Fricks, the Goulds, the Parkinses,—these hundred thousand helpers,—has gone elsewhere, following the candidate it was accustomed to finance when he was master of the destinies of the republican party during the evil hours when it was a mere annex of one individual's lust for power.

And so this must be a campaign fought by volunteers. Republicans who realize the importance of the duty devolving upon them in this campaign must be the minute men of this historic battle. They must ride from house to house rousing their neighbors to the approach of an enemy more dangerous than the foreign foe whose march to Lexington was proclaimed to the people of New England by Paul Revere when our forefathers were preparing to offer their lives for the creation of a form of government the apostles of the new order now seek to overturn. They must give some of their time for the next three weeks to an appeal to the reasoning powers, to the calm judgment, to the latent patriotism of those who share with them the enjoyment of the blessings of free government and the benefits of that prosperity larger in volume and more widely diffused than ever prosperity has been in any other country in any former time, or in this country at any time.—Muncie Press.

THE SQUARE DEAL.

(Fort Wayne News.)

Out in California there is no progressive party. And thereby hangs a tale, a tale, too, which illustrates the high sense of honor which dominates Governor Hiram Johnson and his followers and which fortifies their righteous souls as they rush about the country declaring for "the square deal" and mounting piously the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal." They have shown us a bit of practical politics that is without parallel in the whole land, and one which stands as a mark toward which Hinky Dick and Bath House John of Chicago, can only gaze at from afar, and gazing, sigh with the envy of hopelessness. After the Chicago convention the Johnson cabal, dominating completely the republican state organization, concluded that it would best serve its own purposes by retaining the name republican. It therefore called a "republican" convention which it ruled to the exclusion of real republicans and nominated Roosevelt and Johnson electors, placing the names of Roosevelt and Johnson at the head of their ticket. The republicans were thus barred from the use of their own party name by the adherents of a party that is acknowledgedly doing its utmost to destroy the Republican party and established their own upon its ruins. Not only this, but the many thousands of President Taft's supporters are not so much as to be allowed to vote for him under the emblem of some other party. They stand disfranchised by those men of pious pretensions who have seized the republican name to assist in the defeat of the republican cause.

HOW THE FILIPINOS
ARE BEING TRAINEDEducation of the Islanders Is Progressing.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The object of the system of education which the United States is conducting in the Philippines is to make good Filipinos, not good Americans, according to the report of the department of education of the insular government, just received.

"We are not trying to make good Americans of them, but to make good Filipinos of them, and we are succeeding. We have established as generally as possible throughout the archipelago an educational system which we hope will give the greatest possible number of the islanders the kind of education which will do them the greatest possible good—as islanders."

Such is the statement of policy that is made.

More than half a million children are now enrolled in the public schools of the Philippines. They are being taught and supervised by more than 9,000 American and Filipino teachers with practical courses of study from the primary grades up through the professional college of the Philippine university.

The greater part of the theory of educational system of the islands is in the direction of manual training.

CROP RECORDS

All Over the County Are Broken This Year.

Never before have the great cereal crops of the United States been so bountiful as those of this year. Records of production for almost every cereal have been surpassed, in some instances by millions of bushels. The October crop report of the Department of Agriculture, issued yesterday, shows that spring wheat, oats, barley, rye and hay have exceeded the best record productions, while the crops of corn and potatoes from present indications, have been the greatest ever.

Speaking of this great showing made by the country farmers, James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, today said:

"The crops are the heaviest on record. The season has been favorable, but some credit is due to the wide efforts made in late years by the federal government and the country in general to help farmers all over the country to get better results from the average acre."

The features of the report are enormous harvests of corn, oats and also spring wheat. More than 3,000,000 bushels of corn, almost 1,500,000,000 bushels of oats and 33,000,000 bushels of spring wheat have been grown. The states in the northwest are harvesting the greatest crops ever grown there.

In North Dakota, 146,592,000 bushels of spring wheat, the greatest spring wheat harvest ever grown by any state, was produced.

The yield per acre there was increased from eight bushels last year to 18 bushels this year.

Iowa with 319,780,000 bushels; Illinois with 182,726,000 bushels; Minnesota with 122,932,000 bushels, and North Dakota with 96,138,000 bushels, were the principal oat producers.

In each of these states the yield per acre was almost double last year's yield.

"It looks as if we won't have to import any potatoes this year," said Secretary Wilson, in commenting of the record potato crop. Indications are that the farmers will have 108,000,000 bushels more potatoes this year than last, when, by reason of the short crop, large quantities were imported from Europe.

The Lawrence circuit court has adjourned. A number of the cases were continued until the next term. Judge Shea will preside at the October term of the Jackson circuit court for the next few weeks.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

PRISONERS OF HOPE.

Human are souls—struggling, more or less, to express themselves. Some souls live behind thicker walls and in greater darkness than others and struggle harder to get to the light and express themselves. The stronger the soul the greater the effort. There's the soul of Helen Keller. She became deaf and dumb and blind in infancy. The walls about her soul seemed so thick as to be impenetrable and her dwelling place so dark as to doom her to perpetual isolation and silence. She was a prisoner of hope. Struggling to be free, her soul found a way by which she could speak to the world. Following a tiny ray, she broke through to the light. Helen Keller was educated in the best schools, heart, brain and body. Learning to read, she was guided to the best literature. Thinking along the higher lines, her sympathies were widened. A note, she gained the power of perfect speech—with what painful striving we may never know. Blind, she saw many things more clearly than we who have perfect eyes. Deaf, she has heard the pleadings of the unfortunate better than we who have perfect ears. Add now this wonderful soul ascending the savants of the world by studying difficult music and by making an address in English. French and German, masterly in its plea for the unfortunate souls in prison. Soul of man or woman—If this woman, so hampered, could do so much, what cannot you do who have every perfect sense? You are a prisoner of hope. And if it be strong enough to break through to the light no walls can prove a barrier. There are no limits it cannot set aside, to darkness it cannot escape. Though blind, it can learn to see. Though deaf, it can break forth into song. Though dumb, it can hear all the harmonies of the universe. What do you want to do that is good? If you really want to do it, and try, you will. As with Helen Keller, so may the infinite patience and striving of the soul. The time will come when you shall see the door of your prison house and open it. Break your cell. Because—You are a prisoner of hope!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood, and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

DAINTY DISHES WITH APPLES.

Light and luscious desserts may be made of apples combined with other foods. Tart fruit is best for this purpose, as it cooks quickly to the necessary smoothness. Powdered sugar instead of granulated is a good thing for sweetening. Flavor the desserts to taste and decorate them with whipped cream or nut meats. Dainty Fare.

Apple Froth.—Peel and slice some apples and boil them in a little water until they are cooked to a froth. Whisk them when cold with powdered sugar to sweeten and add a cupful of cream. Drop a spoonful of jelly at the bottom of some custard glasses, fill up with apple froth and serve.

Apple Outlets.—Boil some apples until they make a stiff sauce. Sweeten to taste and stir in a little softened gelatin. Set aside to cool. Cut and trim some slices of sponge cake and lay them on a dish. Moisten each with a little fruit juice and when the apple sauce is partly cool cover each sponge slice with a layer of sauce. When cold arrange on lace paper doilies or a fancy dish. Ornament with whipped cream.

Light and Wholesome. Apple Custard.—Pare and quarter several apples and steam until soft, then put in deep dish. Put three cupfuls of milk in a double boiler. Mix together one egg yolk, a large tablespoonful of cornstarch, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, a tiny bit of salt and stir into the hot milk until it thickens. It should be quite thick. Flavor with lemon. Beat the whites of the egg to a stiff froth and sugar to sweeten, spread over the top and set in the hot oven to brown. Serve cold.

Apple Float.—Pare and core about a dozen apples. Put the apples on with enough water to cover and let them stew until they look as if they would break, then take out and put a pound and a half of sugar into the same water. Let the syrup come to a boil, put in the apples and let them stew until done through and clear. Then take them out and add an ounce of gelatin dissolved in a pint of cold water. Let the whole mix well and come to a boil, then pour upon the apples. To be eaten with cream.

"HAIR THAT GIVES FATHER TIME THE LAUGH"

We are just about as old as we LOOK. People judge us, by the way we LOOK. The man or woman with grey hair is beginning to get in the "Old Timer's Class." This Twentieth Century does NOT want GREY hairs—it wants the energy of Youth. The big things are being done by the YOUNGER generation. There's a sort of "Has Been" look about those "Grey Hairs." There is always one to criticize and smile scornfully. Father Time is a stern disciplinarian. Get the best of him. Give him the laugh. Do not be a "Has Been." It's unnecessary. PROSECUTING WITNESS DIDN'T KEEP HIS DATE

Action Against Cincinnati's Mayor Fell Down.

Cincinnati, Oct. 12.—On warrants issued in Magistrate Hohenstein's court, Mayor Henry T. Hunt was arrested at the city hall on the charge that when he was county prosecutor he committed a felony by accepting settlements of claims against breweries. The warrants were issued on application of A. H. Larvin, secretary of the Owl Publishing company, which publishes a small weekly paper. Mayor Hunt, when told that warrants were out for him, said he would wait at the city hall and be ready for any arrest. Following the arrest, the mayor and some friends proceeded to the suburb of Norwood, where the magistrate's court is located, and after waiting an hour and a half, the magistrate dismissed the case against the mayor, as no prosecuting witnesses appeared.

Music Is Good Medicine.

A medical journal has recently announced the results of some experiments made to ascertain the relation of music and medicine. One curious piece of news obtained is that if a lively air is played on a harp or mandolin a man's tired muscles regain their original vigor. The music of a violinello, on the other hand, has a precisely opposite effect, in temporarily lessening the usual strength and vitality of the hearer. In nervous and impressionable people sad music in a minor key weakens the pulse and makes the beating of the heart feeble and more irregular.

A doctor caused some amusement a little time ago by suggesting that almost every mental trouble could be cured by suitable selections of classical music, regularly administered. Jealousy, grief, overwork, homicidal mania, nervous breakdown, all had their corresponding air. The medical world is taking the idea seriously.

Her Left-Handedness Was Complete.

A little maiden, quick to notice peculiarities, asked a guest at her father's table if he were left-handed. "Partially so, my little miss," replied the visitor. His answer puzzled her, but after due reflection she remarked: "I'm full-blooded left-handed."

Dr. Fritch Declared Innocent.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—A jury in the circuit court declared Dr. George A. Fritch not guilty of the murder of Maybelle Millman of Ann Arbor, whose dismembered body was found in Ecorse creek, near Detroit, in August, 1909.

Noble Hays went to Brownstown this morning to attend the opening session of court.

Almost a Miracle.

One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. B. Holsclaw, Clarendon, Tex., was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for Coughs and Colds with excellent results." It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind. Advertisement.

A Cure From The Forest

Nature in her wisdom and beneficence has provided, in her great vegetable laboratory, the forest, a cure for most of the ills and ailments of humanity. Work and study have perfected the compounding of these botanical medicines and placed them at our disposal. We rely upon them first because of their ability in curing disease, and next because we can use them with the confidence that such remedies do not injure the system.

Among the best of these remedies from the forest is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely of roots, herbs and barks in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers and the safest of all tonics. It does not contain the least particle of harmful mineral. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Malaria, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison and all other diseases dependent on impure blood. As a tonic S. S. S. builds up the system by supplying a sufficient amount of vigor and nourishment to the body. S. S. S. always cures without leaving any unpleasant or injurious effects. It is perfectly safe for young or old. Book on the blood and any medical advice free.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Mysterious Motor Boat.

I gazed at the letter, trying to comprehend, and finally read it over again. It was short, there was not a line of sentiment; it was a demand. Why? It flashed into my mind that it had to do with Natalie's missing ruby. I did not stop to reason or conjecture. I caught up a sweater, for the night was growing cool and already I was shivering. I went out along the corridor, up the few steps to the main hallway, then down the stairs on the other side of the few steps to the gallery, which was an outlet to the tennis courts. Hap was waiting.

"What is it?" I gasped. "What has happened? Has anything happened?" "Yes," he answered, after a moment's hesitation. "Something has happened."

He caught my hand and drew me across the strip of lawn that separated the house and the courts.

"Where are we going?" I asked breathlessly.

"To the beach. I want to talk to you."

We almost stumbled over some one asleep. It was Henri. Hap prodded him with his foot and Henri sat up, rubbing the sleep from his eyes.

"Ge, up, you idiot," Hap commanded. "This is no place to sleep."

"He'll catch cold," I chattered as the cold night air struck my arms and my bare neck.

Henri arose and disappeared into the shadows. Hap helped me, put on the sweater, turned me around as if I were a little child, buttoned me and hurried me on to the beach. We clattered down the steps to the sand below and sat down just as we had only a couple of hours ago.

"Now, what is it?" I asked. "What has happened?"

"You are prepared for anything?" He gazed into my white face. I know it was white. "You will not be frightened?"

"I am prepared for anything!" I answered, trying to keep my voice steady. "I promise you I will not be frightened. I promise!"

He clasped my hands in both his own.

"Darling!"

"Yes, yes?"

"I waited, fearing, dreading I knew not what."

"What has happened?" I asked. "Don't keep me in suspense."

"That has happened," He smiled. "What?"

"I love you."

I looked at him in astonishment; he was smiling easily. A sudden wave of anger swept over me.

"You have tricked me! I thought it was the ruby. I thought—I was sure—" Connected thought forsook me.

"Hang the ruby!" he exclaimed. "I did trick you, dear, because you are so blessed sensible. Your cool little note, which I have here over my heart, convinced me that you are not at all a comforting kind of a sweet heart, but I hope to teach you. Now, look into my eyes and tell me you love me! Nothing else matters; nothing else except my love for you. I'm sorry I frightened you again. I didn't think of that. I only knew I wanted you to come, knew that I couldn't wait another moment to see you, to hear you say you love me."

He was sweeping me off my feet again. I closed my eyes to steady myself. I wonder if he knew just how much my being sensible had cost me, just how much more it was going to cost me to push back, trample down—

"I'm trying to be sensible," I said, and the tone of my voice was cool, because I was trying to keep it steady.

"My sister has pounded it into me so. I know my head rules my heart, there's a line in my hand that says so, but it's because I must be sensible."

I gave way in contradiction of my words and swayed forward. His arm went around me. I placed my hands, comrade-like, on his shoulders. I was trying to live up to that line in my hand.

"This can't go on," I said.

"What?"

"This seeing you, with a moon like that, and no one near and loving you. He kissed me before I could finish. 'I must be sensible!'"

"You love me—darling?"

"Oh!"

"Why must you be sensible?"

I thought for a while before I answered, meeting his eyes unwaveringly. It was hard to put the answer in words if he did not already understand the intangible everything that was the reason.

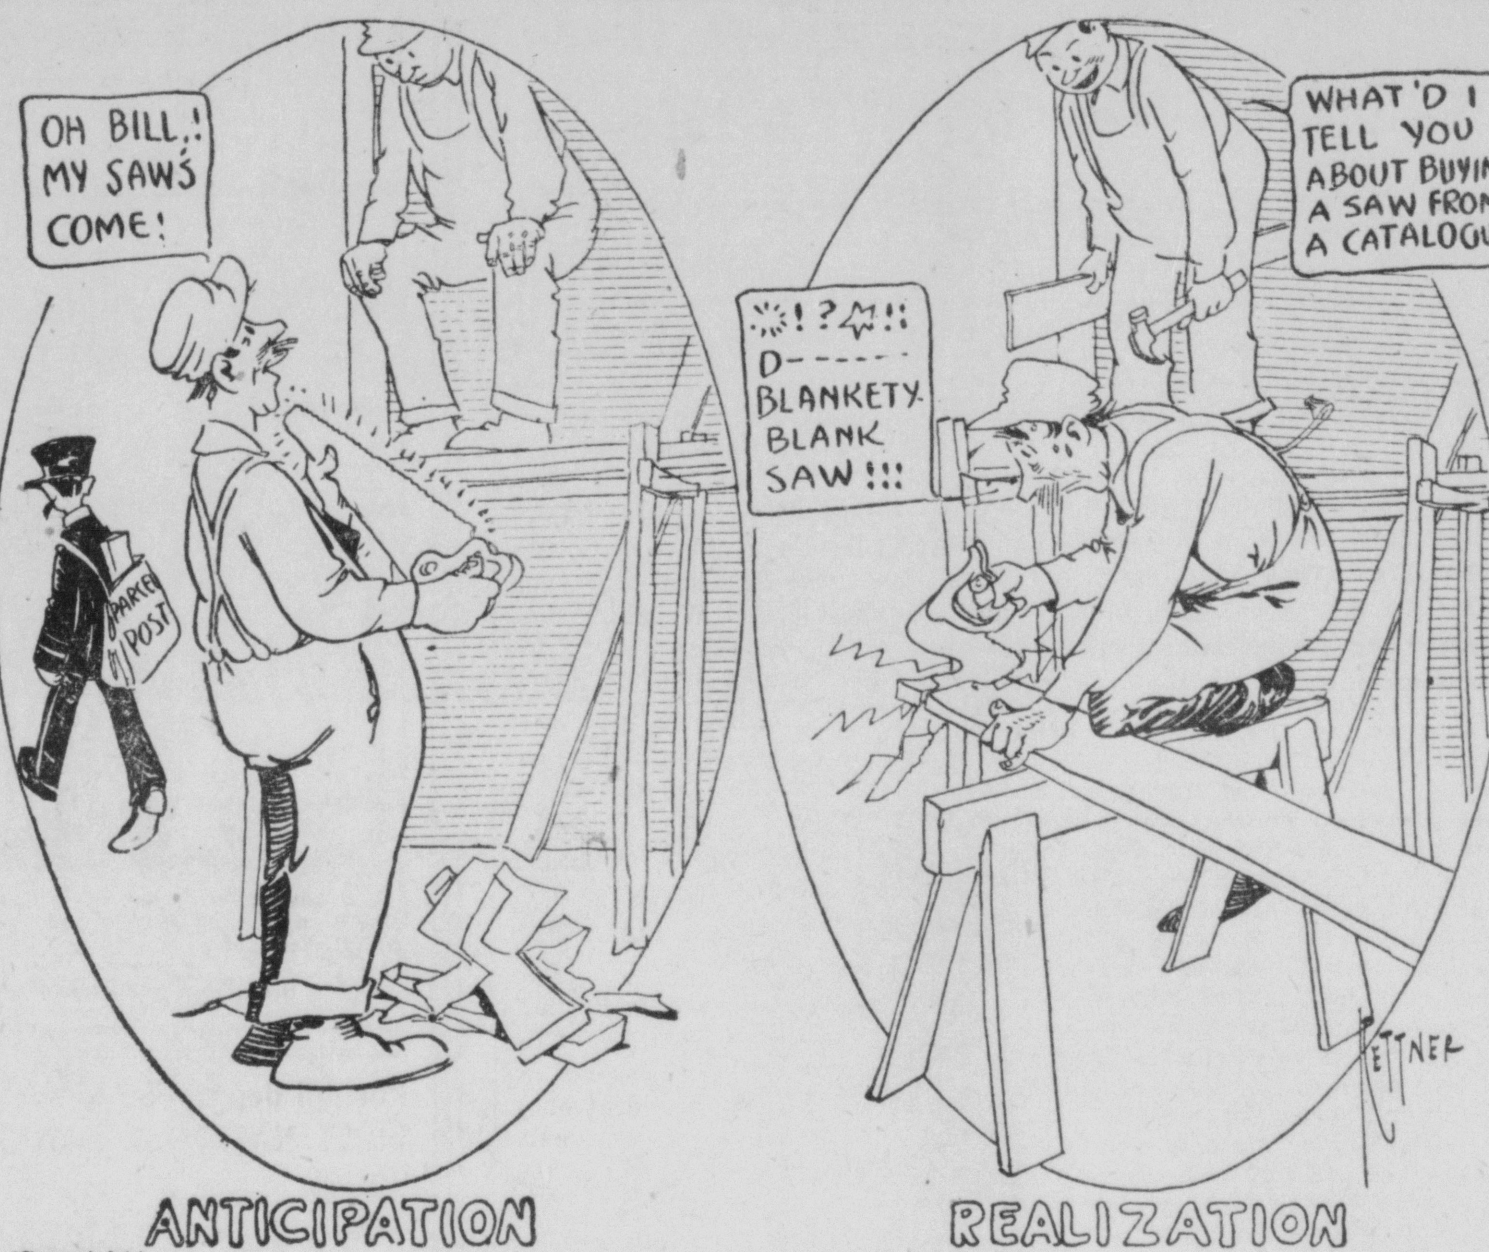

"Do you remember that I'm in a very serious position?" I asked him. "I've been accused of—of being a thief, not suspected, but actually accused! Perhaps tomorrow I shall be arrested. That means—means—"

"I can run away from anybody on this shore. Well!" He dropped down on the sand, took off his cap and turned his face to the breeze.

"Were you running away from anybody?" I asked.

"Yes, I think I was. Funny thing happened. I was away up somewhere along the beach there in front of Hemmingway's or that old General."

ANOTHER BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT

to be in the newspapers. Arrests are a matter of public record, aren't they? Then I will have to vindicate myself? And how? And if I do, the smudge will always be there, my name in the records of the police. Do you suppose I am going to let you expose yourself as my champion? Everybody will believe it, except perhaps your mother, and Laura, and—and yourself. Miss Agazziz believes I'm a thief!"

"Louie, will you marry me tonight—now? Give me the right to protect you?"

"No," I answered promptly.

"It's all darned foolishness, Natalie accusing you. She acted on an impulse. She will be ashamed of herself when she's had time to think it over."

"She didn't act on an impulse; she isn't that kind. She's sure she's right. Do you remember that I was on the balcony at the time she thinks her emerald bracelet was stolen?"

"Do you know that before you came she suspected Winthrop?" he asked.

"Yes, I know."

"It's all a lot of tommy-rot, her suspicions. I believe she loses things. No one else has had anything stolen. If we have a thief here he wouldn't stop at one jewel, where there are so many. If she's in earnest about being robbed, why doesn't she go to the police and say so?"

"O-o-o-h! The police!" I couldn't resist imitating her. "Well, perhaps she's going to the police now. That—that's what I must be prepared for. She hasn't had time to do anything yet but tell your mother. She won't gossip, Hap; she's true blue, but of course she will do something decisive after—after accusing me. Surely your mother will send me away. You see I can't go until she sends me—it's a contract. Then—I dare not think beyond that! Whatever comes I must face it, with Jo to help me."

"And me—don't leave me out, Louie. You're going to marry me. It's the best answer I know to any suspicions."

"I'm not going to marry you, Hap. I've tried to make you see the reason—the big reason—and there are a thousand little ones. Don't you suppose everybody knows about me? That I am a salaried servant? No, there is no use trying to disguise it. Everybody knows my position; I'm not allowed to forget it. There's a great deal of assurance in the way Natalie indicates a vacant chair when she wants me to fill in at bridge. It rather amuses me. Mrs. Sargent sent me for golf balls the other day, actually. Yes, I know, everybody is pretty decent since Laura kicked up a row about that episode at Mrs. Dykeman's, but it only served to make me more conspicuous than Mrs. Dykeman didn't consider me a guest; I was only borrowed for the occasion. Please don't abuse anybody. Nothing has been awkward as I expected it to be. Your mother has been heavenly to me, and society has taken to me rather kindly, but marry you—I Gracious!"

I heard the steady beat of a motorboat and I paused to listen. Hap heard it, too. It wasn't anything unusual, except the insistent beat of the engine was familiar to me. It must have been making twenty miles an hour.

"That's Winthrop, isn't it?" Hap asked.

"I think so. He's coming pretty fast, isn't he? He doesn't always race like that."

We could only see a searchlight faintly, for the moon was so bright. It was coming toward us steadily. When almost opposite our landing the boat swerved and came directly head on. It stopped with a snort and a puff, the searchlight was snapped out, and some one landed, tied up the boat and straightened up against the moonlight.

"Hello, Winthrop!" Hap called.

"Hello, old man," Winthrop answered. He came toward us. "Is it Miss Codman? Did you see me coming? I can run away from anybody on this shore. Well!" He dropped down on the sand, took off his cap and turned his face to the breeze.

"Were you running away from anybody?" I asked.

"Yes, I think I was. Funny thing happened. I was away up somewhere along the beach there in front of Hemmingway's or that old General."

"That's Winthrop, isn't it?" Hap asked.

"I think so. He's coming pretty fast, isn't he? He doesn't always race like that."

We could only see a searchlight faintly, for the moon was so bright. It was coming toward us steadily. When almost opposite our landing the boat swerved and came directly head on. It stopped with a snort and a puff, the searchlight was snapped out, and some one landed, tied up the boat and straightened up against the moonlight.

"Hello, Winthrop!" Hap called.

"Hello, old man," Winthrop answered. He came toward us. "Is it Miss Codman? Did you see me coming? I can run away from anybody on this shore. Well!" He dropped down on the sand, took off his cap and turned his face to the breeze.

"Were you running away from anybody?" I asked.

"Yes, I think I was. Funny thing happened. I was away up somewhere along the beach there in front of Hemmingway's or that old General."

"Louie, will you marry me tonight—now? Give me the right to protect you?"

"No," I answered promptly.

"It's all darned foolishness, Natalie accusing you. She acted on an impulse. She will be ashamed of herself when she's had time to think it over."

"She didn't act on an impulse; she isn't that kind. She's sure she's right. Do you remember that I was on the balcony at the time she thinks her emerald bracelet was stolen?"

"Do you know that before you came she suspected Winthrop?" he asked.

"It's all a lot of tommy-rot, her suspicions. I believe she loses things. No one else has had anything stolen. If we have a thief here he wouldn't stop at one jewel, where there are so many. If she's in earnest about being robbed, why doesn't she go to the police and say so?"

"O-o-o-h! The police!" I couldn't resist imitating her. "Well, perhaps she's going to the police now. That—that's what I must be prepared for. She hasn't had time to do anything yet but tell your mother. She won't gossip, Hap; she's true blue, but of course she will do something decisive after—after accusing me. Surely your mother will send me away. You see I can't go until she sends me—it's a contract. Then—I dare not think beyond that! Whatever comes I must face it, with Jo to help me."

"And me—don't leave me out, Louie. You're going to marry me. It's the best answer I know to any suspicions."

"I'm not going to marry you, Hap. I've tried to make you see the reason—the big reason—and there are a thousand little ones. Don't you suppose everybody knows about me? That I am a salaried servant? No, there is no use trying to disguise it. Everybody knows my position; I'm not allowed to forget it. There's a great deal of assurance in the way Natalie indicates a vacant chair when she wants me to fill in at bridge. It rather amuses me. Mrs. Sargent sent me for golf balls the other day, actually. Yes, I know, everybody is pretty decent since Laura kicked up a row about that episode at Mrs. Dykeman's, but it only served to make me more conspicuous than Mrs. Dykeman didn't consider me a guest; I was only borrowed for the occasion. Please don't abuse anybody. Nothing has been awkward as I expected it to be. Your mother has been heavenly to me, and society has taken to me rather kindly, but marry you—I Gracious!"

I heard the steady beat of a motorboat and I paused to listen. Hap heard it, too. It wasn't anything unusual, except the insistent beat of the engine was familiar to me. It must have been making twenty miles an hour.

"That's Winthrop, isn't it?" Hap asked.

"I think so. He's coming pretty fast, isn't he? He doesn't always race like that."

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

They Are Closely Observing Public Health Conditions.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that the reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of applicants do not even suspect that they have the disease.

He states that judging from his own experience and reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has probably been more successful in relieving and curing these diseases than any remedy known. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

We find that Swamp-Root is strictly an herbal compound and we would advise our readers who feel in need of such a remedy to give it a trial. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes—fifty cents and one dollar.

However, if you wish first to test its wonderful merits, send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle, absolutely free. When writing be sure and mention the Daily Republican.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

Sage and Sulphur Remedy For Dandruff, Faded and Gray Hair.

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark, glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp, and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh faded hair, when a simple harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose, falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color, strength and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special Agents Andrews Drug Co. 0144

Was Only Fifteen Years Old.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 11.—The body of the girl known as "Jessie," who was found in a resort here a week ago with a towel stuffed down her throat, and who, in the opinion of the police, was choked to death, has been identified as Jessie McGee of Lima, O. The dead girl was fifteen years old, and came down the river on a trading boat from Cincinnati several weeks ago.

A Correction.

When "Scotty," of the Eighty-fifth Massachusetts, was captured, the rebels disarmed him, and one said, "If you move here a dead man."

"You're wrong there," said Scotty. "If I move, I'm a live one."

WAR REMINISCENCES

HALL WON MEDAL OF HONOR

Made Daring Attempt to Rescue Lieutenant Weir and Scout From Attack of Ute Indians.

Adjutant-General William P. Hall, who retired from active service last February, was a West Pointer and the holder of a medal of honor. General Hall entered the military academy in 1864, graduating four years later and being assigned to the Nineteenth infantry as a second lieutenant. In March, 1869, he was placed on the list of unassigned officers, where he remained until July in that year, when he was assigned to the Fifth cavalry. It was while he was with that regiment that he received his medal of honor. In the fall of 1879 a force of Ute Indians surrounded a small detachment of regulars in the White River country. For three days and three nights the soldiers held off the Indians. Rescue came finally, and the Indians made way before the charge of Colonel Merritt and his men, who had made a record ride to the aid of the beleaguered troops.

A day or two after the retreat of the Utes Lieutenant William B. Weir, ordnance department, and a scout left the camp on a deer hunt. Not long after their departure, Lieutenant Hall with three men were ordered out on a reconnaissance. The lieutenant and his little command circled through the mountains for several hours and in the afternoon they heard a succession of shots.

They struck out for the spot from which the firing came. On rounding the shoulder of the valley Lieutenant Hall saw at a little distance across the open space a band of at least forty Utes. The officer saw that Lieutenant Weir and the scout had been surprised and had taken to a rocky ledge. Lieutenant Hall sent four shots into the ranks of the Utes, making them change their shelter. The lieutenant knew that if he could draw the fire of all the Indians at once that Lieutenant Weir and his companion might make a dash to ward him while the rifles of the Indians were unloaded.

Lieutenant Hall stood up at full length on the rock. The Utes saw him and the Indians emptied their rifles at him. Lieutenant Weir and the scout dashed out from their shelter the instant that the Utes had let drive at Lieutenant Hall. They made half the distance to their comrades before the Indians had reloaded. Then the two dropped behind a rock and waited. The Indians did not again respond to the fire of Lieutenant Hall's command. Then the lieutenant stood on the rock once more facing the Utes. Lieutenant Weir and the scout dashed out—but the Indians had learned the trick. One-half of the Indian band turned their guns at Lieutenant Hall. The other half fired at Weir and the scout, both of whom fell dead, while Lieutenant Hall escaped unharmful. Then they attacked Lieutenant Hall and his three comrades, who retreated slowly from cover to cover, holding their assailants in check until the shooting was heard at the camp and a body of men rode out to the rescue and the Utes fled. Lieutenant Hall was given a medal of honor for his gallantry.

All of his service was in the west until appointed an assistant adjutant-general with the rank of major in November, 1893. He had been a member of the department, division, army, and distinguished marksmen teams between 1879 and 1892, and won medals upon all these teams, shooting with carbine and revolver. He left the department of Texas in April, 1898, where he had been adjutant general, to go to the department of the Gulf at Atlanta, and in February, 1899, he was sent to the department of Porto Rico. He went to the department of the Lakes in 1901, and the Philippines division in 1902. He became lieutenant-colonel in 1897, colonel in 1901, and brigadier general in 1904.

FIVE CHARGES OF DYNAMITE

Authorities at Gary Let Loose a Destructive Force That Removes an Obstruction That For Years Had Kept Thousands of Acres of Rich Garden Lands Inundated Merely For Purposes of Sport.

Hammond, Ind., Oct. 14.—Twenty-six pounds of dynamite, divided into five charges, fired by Chief Martin and a number of men on the Gary police force, blew up the Tolleston club dam on the Little Calumet river.

With the first crack of the old timbers and stones in the dam, millions of gallons of water spread over thousands of acres of land and moved westward through the Little Calumet channel. The explosions were terrific, and sent some of the old logs in the obstruction 100 feet into the air.

The breaking of the dam will drain thousands of acres of land. It will remove the artificial overflow that the old Tolleston Gun club has maintained in this territory for years. The proposed Burns ditch, it is figured, will drain this area and it will be used for gardening purposes. The reason for breaking the dam was to get rid of the water, which otherwise would have made the big south side sewer system in Gary, now under construction, an impossibility.

CLUE TO MURDER

Tracks Lead From Skeleton Found In Human Funeral Pyre.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 14.—Evidences of a murder committed several weeks ago, with practically all clues obliterated except a set of mule hoofprints, were uncovered in the finding of the skeleton of a man in a deserted bayou near Dam No. 48 on the Ohio river, fifteen miles below this city.

The skeleton, bare of flesh except on the arms, lay near a fire, and it is thought the body was brought there to be burned. Ashes show that a big fire had been kindled, and the absence of all except a few small bits of clothing show that the fire did most of its work on the body.

The possibility that a tramp or lone camper caught fire and was burned to death is eliminated by the inaccessibility of the bayou from the roads of travel. The hoofprints of a mule leading to and from the scene indicate that the body was brought there before the fire was kindled. Boys who were out hunting found the body.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER

Noblesville Young Man Finds Father Slain in Home.

Noblesville, Ind., Oct. 14.—Erastus Billhmer, fifty-six years old, was found dead at his home near this city by his son Clifton when he returned from his work after an absence of two days. Mystery surrounds the death.
There was blood scattered around the room and a wound on the back of his head appears to have been inflicted with some blunt instrument. The body was lying in the center of the room and partially nude. Physicians say there is evidence that the man had been dead for two days. The deceased and his son were living together.
He and his wife had separated several months ago.

The Surprise of His Life.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Oct. 14.—A hobo had the surprise of his life when the freight car in which he had taken refuge in the Pennsylvania yards for a free ride to Indianapolis, was opened, and he found himself within the walls of the Indiana reformatory, and unprovided with commitment papers at that. It was a novel experience for the hobo, and he was not sorry when he was shown the gate by direction of Superintendent Peyton.

Came Together Head-On.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 14.—Operating a railroad motor machine at a speed of sixty miles an hour, Glenn Argo collided with a handcar carrying seven men engaged in installing signal service for the Grand Trunk railroad between this city and the Michigan state line. Ed Hill and William Fredericks were seriously injured. The other members of the crew and Argo escaped with painful bruises.

Indiana Red Men to Meet.

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—The forty-fourth great council of Indiana Improved Order of Red Men and the Degree of Pocahontas will meet here this week. The Red Men will hold sessions Tuesday and Wednesday and the Thursday. New officers for both orders will be elected.

Drye Lost Their Motion.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 14.—The decision of Judge Moran, in which he held for the "wets" in the Union City local option election case, will stand, unless reversed by the appellate court.
Judge Moran overruled a motion for a new trial at the "dry" forces.

ANSWER THE CALL.

Seymour People Have Found That
This Is Necessary.

A cold, a strain, a sudden wrench,
a little cause may hurt the kidneys.
Spells of backache often follow.

Or some irregularity of the urine.
A splendid remedy for such attacks.

A medicine that has satisfied thousands.

Is Doan's Kidney Pills, a special kidney remedy.

Many Seymour people rely on it.
Here is Seymour proof.

Mrs. Carl Larison, 323 N. Mill St., Seymour, Ind., says: "I suffered from my back for a long time and often the secretions from my kidneys bothered me. I had dizzy spells and headaches, was languid and could hardly attend to my house work. Every cold I caught settled in my kidneys and made my trouble worse.
Every little noise irritated me and I felt nervous. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved these troubles and in return for their good work, I recommend them at every opportunity."

The above statement must carry conviction to the mind of every reader. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Larison had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50 cents at all stores. Foster-Milburn Co., Props.,
